

Dental Introduction

Chris is a strategist who helps dental teams create practices that patients rave about and team members are proud to show up for. He's known for turning everyday chaos into clear, repeatable workflows that make dentistry feel smoother, calmer, and far more human.

His work spans leadership development, communication systems, and team culture design, with a focus on building environments where people feel valued and patients feel the difference the moment they walk in. He also leads the Build Your Smile Dental Foundation, bringing that same disciplined, mission-driven mindset to global dental initiatives.

Today's session reflects his belief that great dentistry is much more than simply good clinical work, it's operational, cultural, and deeply relational.

Please welcome Chris.
